“ The thing I remember most about Aunt Alberta was her quilting. She must have spent all her free time quilting because every extended family member got a quilt when they married or had children. My daughter, especially, wore her to pieces. She took it with her everywhere during toddler hood. At her request we salvaged what we could of it, and had it pieced into a new quilt for her own little one. Thank you Alberta for your many labors of love over the years!
