“ I remember back in college when I was roommates with Andrew; those were good times. We would play Super Smash Bros together, among other activities with friends. I feel as though we truly connected in that time; he was the first roommate I had and a great friend.

Admittedly, we didn't keep in touch very frequently after I moved, but I am glad I got to see him again before he passed.

“ Andrew came to visit us for a week in Austin Texas during his spring break in 2010. It was a pleasure to have him with us. I think it was a happy time for Andrew too and motivated him to move to Austin a few years later when he graduated. I have fond memories of the day we drove to a place called Enchanted Rock. Here are a couple of pictures from that day of my son Sharif and Andrew basking in the sun on top of the rock. We will miss you Andrew. RIP.

“ Andy was always there for me. On Sundays we would hang out in his apartment and I would listen to him play on his piano. He is a smart guy and loved his eegees and Asian food 😊 he was never a judgmental man. My past was not the prettiest. He would always check on me and make sure I was ok. He knew i was homeless at the time and always gave me vegetables his dad would give him or a shower if I needed it. We went one day to get high chairs for his kitchen. He was really into the Buddhist thinking and loved to read. Andy will be missed by me very much. Your always in my prayers and my heart Andy.
