“ I remember Janice welcoming me into her home on Thanksgiving. I was a friend of her youngest daughter, with family living far to the west. She was so warm, intelligent, and witty; and she made me feel right at home with the rest of the family. We spoke of the medical profession - my parents were both in that field - and I was struck by the way she talked about her research and work with patience, struck by what was obviously a deep and genuine commitment to her patients. She was a truly beautiful human being.
