“ When Linda moved to Westbury Manor we became instant best friends. We did all the things teenage girls do. Sleep-overs, talked on the phone for hours, shared clothes, sunbathed at the subdivision pool in our cute bikinis, went to dances , learning how to drive and double dated a lot. That is what we were doing the first time we went up in the new St. Louis Arch. We made a lot of chocolate chip cookies at her house and I remember she was allergic to Toll House and only could use Hershey chocolate chips. She got me hooked on the soap opera "General Hospital". Right after high school graduation we seriously talked about moving to Florida and sharing an apartment together. Over the years I have sometimes wondered what our lives would have been like if we had pursued that idea. We use to talk about about our future, hopes and dreams Linda was so adorable, lots of fun with a fantastic personality and I just loved being with her. She was such a very good, loyal , trustworthy friend to me. Unfortunately I do not have any photos, but I do treasure what she wrote in my Parkway Central yearbooks and her class pictures. The last time we saw each other was I believe in the early 1990's. Linda had not changed one bit and we both felt like we were teenagers again. We had a great time reminiscing that night. Memories are timeless treasures of the heart and special gifts of life. My thoughts and prayers are with the family during this difficult time.

“ One evening at Christmas time, Paul, Linda, Steve and myself went to Lake Forest Country Club for dinner. It was a magical evening. With the Christmas decorations all a glitter, we sat and watched big white fluffy snowflakes float down from the sky. Linda always referred to that night as our Norman Rockwell moment.

Linda will be missed. God bless you and your family.

“ Sarah, Jeff, Meaghan and Kristin,
Please know you all are held close in our thoughts and prayers during this time. Sarah, I have fond memories of your mom helping us juggle all the twins when they were babies. She was a part of some fun playdates! I was always struck by her kindness, fun energy and awesome fashion sense. May God bless you all.
