“ Ann and our mom, Joan Wagner, were good friends for many years. I remember some oil-based paintings and other items Ann had made sitting around our home on Wellington Drive. Ann was an artistic and creative person.

I shared this story recently with Laurie Currinder. Our mom and Ann used to enjoy talking with each other on the phone. One evening, our mom went into Ann and Chuck's house to speak with Ann. Don and I were left in the car (a 1960 Ford Falcon) outside Currinder's home. My brother and I must have felt my mom and Ann were talking too long with each other. Don and I began honking the horn. Eventually, the horn on the Falcon got stuck and the horn would not turn off. Let's just say our Mom was not all happy with Don and I.
