“ I worked with Nate every day at Ritenour High School for three years, up until the Spring of 2015. He was a typical teenager who liked to work, like going to school and liked to play around. Even though he had Duchennes and suffered a lot of pain that most of us will never imagine, he was a regular teenager. I would like to remember him that way. Still, I am inspired by how tough and mentally strong he was as he faced his illness and prognosis head on. He lived life each day, one day at a time and had a toughness that I wish everyone had. Nate will certainly be missed, but I hope that everyone also celebrates the life that he had and how much joy he brought to all those who know him. I think I speak on behalf of those who worked with him at Ritenour High in saying that he is a bright light that will never be dimmed and will certainly be missed.

“ Oh where do I start... Nate was one of those few people you meet in life that leave a mark on your soul forever. Tyrese loved that boy and those two together were unstoppable. I have so many memories of him. Cindy, like I've always told you, you area very strong woman and those kids are blessed to have you as their mother. We love you guys!

“ I only met Nate once, but I remember how sweet and happy he was. Cindy, I have always admired your strength and dedication to him. He couldn't have asked for a better mom. You are both in my thoughts.

“ I remember that smile from ear to ear, especially when we played crash-em cars with the hot wheels on the table top at the end of the therapy session. He tolerated all the exercises I did with him because he knew we would have 5 minutes of pandemonium with those cars crashing into each other. if you got your opponents car off the table you got a point. He won the majority of the time. I think he let me win occasionally so I would not get discouraged. He was afraid I wouldn't play with him anymore. I guess he did not know I enjoyed the time as much as he did.

“ I remember this smiley monster giving me a citation on my car for parking on a small piece of grass in his yard. Smile from ear to ear in his officers uniform as he placed it on my car. Love that kid
